PH 013 Philosophical Foundations for Theology Pre-Requisite – Dr. J. Jacobs

This course is an overview of the methods, ideas, and goals of philosophy in preparation for theological studies. It will be composed of several units, each focusing on a branch of philosophy pertinent to the development of Christian Theology. These units will include a survey of Metaphysics, Epistemology, Philosophical Anthropology, Philosophical Ethics, and the Philosophy of God. While the aim is to expose students to the breadth of the Western philosophical tradition, special emphasis will be laid on the thought of Thomas Aquinas in achieving a synthesis of Christian faith and philosophical reason.

06/05, 06/12, 06/19, 06/26, 07/10, 07/17, 07/24, 07/31– Room 4

SS 113 Biblical Theology of the Eucharist – Dr. B. Pitre

This course will consist of an in-depth exploration of the biblical roots of the Eucharist, “the source and summit of the Christian life.” After a brief introduction to Catholic teaching on the Eucharist, the course first explores Old Testament roots of the Eucharist as found in the ancient Jewish Passover, the Tabernacle of Moses and the Bread of the Presence, the exodus from Egypt, manna from heaven, and other biblical types. It then turns to the Gospels, and examines the Eucharistic words and deeds of Jesus during his public ministry, such as feeding the multitudes, the banquet parables, and the sermon in the Synagogue at Capernaum. It will study the Last Supper in detail. The course will also explore the Eucharistic worship of the early Church as described in the letters of Saint Paul, the Apocalypse of John, and the ancient Church Fathers.

05/29, 06/05, 06/12, 06/19, 06/26 – Room 7

HT 113 Historical Topic – Vatican II: Continuity and Development – Dr. D. Liberto

This course is designed to introduce the student to the major documents of the Second Vatican Council. The course presents the documents within a hermeneutic of continuity. Therefore, documents (papal, magisterial, and other writings) are examined that were written before and after the council to demonstrate that the documents of the Council were within an organic and contiguous development and continuity with previous Church teaching.

05/29, 06/05, 06/12, 06/19, 06/26 – Room 5

MT 113 Person and Morality – Dr. C. Baglow

This foundational morality course introduces the student to the human person as the central locus of moral theology. Issues such as the essential nature of intellect and will, man as body-soul unity, man as person, man as imago Dei and man as male and female will form a foundation for considering man as a moral agent. Special attention will be given to philosophical and scientific insights as they relate to human dignity, uniqueness and freedom. Classical sources will be paired with contemporary documents such as Gaudium et spes and Communion and Stewardship to form a context for moral theology that does justice to the mystery that is the human person.

MT 213 Moral Theology II – Very Rev. José I. Lavastida, S.T.D.

This course presents the moral teaching of the encyclical Veritatis Splendor and the Catholic teaching on the virtues. The objective of this course is to acquaint the student of theology with the centrality of Jesus Christ in the Moral teaching of the Church. This focus will also enable the student to see the connection between the person of Christ and the moral life as exemplified in the virtues.

07/10, 07/17, 07/24, 07/31, 08/07 – Room 4

The deadline to apply for admission for the summer is May 15, 2010. If you have questions concerning the program, please contact Mary Langlois: mlanglois@nds.edu or (504) 866-7426, ext 3741.
